Support

Where the Heart Listens was first published in 2001 with support, in part, from Gravestar Foundation. Online publication in 2007 is made possible by a grant from Reed Elsevier Cares and support from the MIT Community Service Fund and Carpenters Union Local #40.

Webhosting is by CyberAccess.

Disclaimer

PARENTS FORUM is not a substitute for medical, psychiatric or psychological advice, for professional parenting education or for other counseling.

Readers are urged to consult their health care advisors or other appropriate professionals about specific concerns or problems.

Dedication

To parents around the world and all those who care for children and support parents.

My gratitude list starts with my parents, Dick and Louise Odiorne, no longer living, whom I thank for their energy and inspiration. Also I am happy to have known all four of my grandparents, Kitty Grandmother and Grandfather George Harris, Grandfather Ralph and Grandmother Helen Odiorne. I cherish a childhood shared with my sister Corinne and my brother Ken. My friendships with them, with Corinne's husband Daniel and their girls, Helen and Rose, with Ken's wife Chris and their three children, Geoffrey, Maggie and Tommy, are also treasures to me. Of the several other-mothers and other-fathers and the many neighbors and coworkers who helped me along the way, Beverly and Read Viemeister, Florence O'Hare and Herman Feshbach, deserve special mention. I learned a great deal from each of them... how to be, as well as what to do, in life.

Joe, my ex-husband, gave me the chance to be a mother, and I am grateful to him every day for Rich, Luke and Michael. Joe also suggested to Merid, one of his students from Ethiopia, that he ask me for a room in my house. That short-term, exchange student arrangement began in the late 80's when Merid was attending high school with Rich and Luke. Over the years Merid has become a wonderful brother for our three. People ask if I adopted Merid. I didn't, but he adopted us. I appreciate Joe's family and Merid's family too for their many kindnesses. Thanks especially to the four of you boys, for your patience and love in raising me as a parent.

I have immense gratitude to PARENTS FORUM co-founder Christine Bates, founding board member Mary McCormack and early, long-time supporters Miriam Hadley, Karen Kosco and Angel Zamora. Deep thanks are due to other PARENTS FORUM board members and advisors, past and present, Alexander Belopolsky, Tim Cunningham, Mike Borruso, Nina Breygin, Bonny Carroll, Dan Dangler, Darlene Hawkins, Gene Kalaw, Emma Lathan, Arlene Lowney, Mary McPeak, Paul Nicholson, Marsha Orent, Margaret Serpa, Steven Stathis, Lois Sullivan, Natalie Thue and Howard Wolfe. For patience and understanding, thanks also to family members of these wonderful folks. Thanks as well to participants, volunteers and sponsors for contributions of time, goods, services and most of all your good energies.

Suzanne Wildman introduced me to Martha Mulligan who edited this book. I simply could not have written it without your help! Heartfelt thanks to you both and to Fletcher Moore, typesetter extraordinaire. Designers Marie Sheridan and Jana Bull and illustrator Martina Marek merit special mention for their excellent professional work and for the handholding this first-time author needed.

Community members in Cambridge and Somerville who have encouraged and advised me at key points over the past years include John Altobello, MIT students Sean Barrett and Shirley Lai who co-wrote our first business plans for the MIT Entrepreneurs Club 10K Competitions, Armando, Bill Bates, Ginny Berkowitz and others involved with Cambridge Community Television, Fred Berman, Beverly Cassara, Charlie Christopher, Pat Dailey, Ann Dausch, Adina Davidson, Vince Dixon, Francis Duehay, Ariela and Uri Friedman, Sarah Fugiwara, Margaret Gallagher and Cambridge Public School Department parent liaisons, Sarah Gallop, Margaret Ann Gray, Nancy Hoe and other members of the Cambridge Family Literacy Coalition, Bret Henry, Bob Hurlbut, Derrick and Michelle Jackson, Rick Jarvis, Lee George Jefferson, Jean Jeune, Eileen Keegan, Jack Langstaff and everyone at Revels, Todd Marinoff, Daryl Mark and Susan Flannery and Cambridge Public Library staff, Denise Maguire and Cambridge Family and Children's Services staff, Dave Massé, Monica Murphy, Joel Nitzberg, Judy and Jack Palmer, Michelle Phelan, Gus Rancatore, Margaret Rueter, Dorothy Scotten, Carolyn Shipley, Richard Shyduroff, Doug Ling and others involved with the MIT Entrepreneurs Club, Rae Simpson and Kathy Simons at MIT Family Resource Center, Walter Sullivan and Michael Sullivan, Karen Swaim, Phoebe Wells and other home-schooling parents and Alice Wolf.

The program has received help from members of the Cambridge and Somerville Chambers of Commerce, the Somerville Lions Club and Somerville Kiwanis, the Rotary Clubs of Cambridge, Brookline and several other Boston area cities and towns and political officials in both Cambridge and Somerville. Also we have received valuable pro bono professional services from local attorneys and printing companies.

Folks from away who have helped our program in various ways include Ruth Bhengu from South Africa, Mary Crowley of Parenting UK, Marilyn Dalrymple from Lancaster, California, Luc and Nicole Dupont in Québec, Amr Ghaleb in New York City, Sweet Alice Harris in Watts, Yoshie Kaga at UNESCO in Paris, Corinne Kumar from Tunis, Melody Mograss and Richard Giasson in Montreal, Dr. Ana Mon from Argentina, Sally Rogers in Connecticut, Belinda Rollins in Washington DC and Patty Wipfler from California.

The folks at iComm in Toronto hosted our website for several years, as did MIT -- thank you, Suzana Lisanti. We thank iComm, MIT and Pippin Petty-Schropel at CyberAccess who presently hosts our site. Members of the International Federation for Parent Education and staff and members of CIVICUS and ISTR (International Society for Third Sector Research) as well as volunteers and staff of World Boston have shared good thoughts with me on many occasions, in person and by email.

National Writers Union members have also encouraged me and the program has benefitted from contacts with Liane Hansen of National Public Radio, Alison Bass of the Boston Globe and several editors and writers at the Cambridge Chronicle, Somerville Journal and Somerville News.

Any gratitude list that left off friends and neighbors would be incomplete indeed. Teachers, parents, parent liaisons and after-school program staff at Fitzgerald, Agassiz, Cambridge Rindge and Latin Schools, teachers and parents at Cambridge Ellis School, and the sisters and teachers at North Cambridge Catholic High School have been wonderfully supportive as have teachers and fellow students from Bryan High School in my home town of Yellow Springs, Ohio. With apologies for any unintended omissions, thank you to Julie Loud Albertin, Len Alford, Stephen Allsop, Luzette and Dionisio Bazeia, Habib Ben Yahia, Pat Berkeley, Ellie Bonsaint, Kay and Steve Borgeson, Fatma and Bechir Bouraoui, Catherine Brentani, Sarah Brill, Peter and Bea Britton, Michael Buss, Chuck and Rita Colbert, Kim and Kate DeRiel, Rae and George Dewey, Dick and Suanne Dillman, Joan Doucette, Pam and Bob Ellison, Jean Flanagan, Meron Getaschew, Cheryl and Brian Gillespie, Pumla Gobodo-Madikizela, Bill and Barbara Golder-Novick, Charlotte Gordon, Deb Gould, Jenny and Walter Gundy, Julie Hammond-Coiro, Sylvio and Blondine Hyppolite, Junko Izumi, George Jenkins, Kim Joy, Louise Kelliher, Carol and Chuck Koeller, Katya

Also, the theoretical physics folks, Laboratory for Nuclear Science staff and Women's Forum colleagues at MIT are an inspiration. I love working with you all.

Besides all my agemates to thank -- and one nice thing about being (finally) "grown-up" is that age-mates can be anywhere from 35 to 75 -- there are my kids' friends, many of whom have become my friends too. They keep me up-to-date on current music and vocabulary and help me avoid a too-early senility. Friends in the Deaf community, Nancy Becker, Rashid Elias, Jason Hurdich, Sidney Pietzsch, Brenda Schurtz, Rita Straubhaar and Ruth Moore especially, and American Sign Language interpreters including Rebekkah Barkowitz, Celia Halstead, Jody Steiner and Tom Westcott opened my eyes to aspects of culture and communication that were entirely foreign to me.

Guests in my home over the last twenty-plus years have, similarly, shared their experiences and taught me a great deal. Friends I've met at conferences in the U.S. and elsewhere have opened their hearts and, sometimes, their homes to me!

Condensing nearly six years of gratitude into a few lines is difficult. I would like to thank current PARENTS FORUM board members: Nina Breygin, Arianna Mamoli, Lauren Leikin and Michael Heffner, our long-serving accountant Sean Donlan and, for his interest and support, Paul Parravano, co-director of the MIT Office of Government and Community Relations. Jolene McDaniel in Utah, sister of our co-founder Christine Bates, deserves a round of applause for providing stacks of business cards for PARENTS FORUM board and volunteers. Gratitude goes to Tish Callanan, Bruno Coppi, Amanda Frye, Earle Lomon and Linda Patton, five MIT community members whose encouragement and involvement have been invaluable over the last few years.

Personal thanks also to Jude Matovu, my host son from Uganda for the last two and a half years. A special word to my three delightful daughters-in-law, Heather Sullivan, Lauren McLaughlin and Lucy Annett: I am so happy you have come into my family and my life.

PARENTS FORUM owes its continued existence since 2001 to two generous donors: John DeCuevas of the Baker Foundation and Nelson Costa of the Hilda Leveen Family Foundation. Charon Duermeijer at Reed Elsevier in Amsterdam initiated the proposal that engaged Reed Elsevier Cares in providing grant support for this online publication. We owe a debt of gratitude to Robert Addison and Carpenters Union Local #40 for their financial support of this online version. Our webhost is still CyberAccess, thanks to Ally and to Pippin!

We want to acknowledge the energy and commitment of Hafeezah Bell and her colleagues at Parents' Management Inc. (PMI) in Roxbury, along with Inez Foster of the Fellowes Athenaeum Trust for funding our 2006-2007 programming with PMI at the Dudley Branch Library. Wainwright Bank also helped fund the Roxbury program.

To Sue Burkhart, who runs Children of Incarcerated Parents, Michael Devine, treatment director at MCI Norfolk, along with the inmates who took part in our workshops there over the past three years: thanks for letting us know by your kind words, in person and by letter, that PARENTS FORUM can make a difference in your work and your lives. Volunteers who helped facilitate the Norfolk workshops, Jason Waters, Stacy Jonh Thomas, Jude Matovu and Luis Nives, were key to the success of this initiative.

Jamesa Wagwau, a parenting columnist for Kampala New Vision in Uganda, has offered wonderful words of encouragement about the relevance of our program to African families. He promises to collaborate on future writing projects and program initiatives. We are counting on you!

To all the helpful people whose names I have forgotten, apologies. To everyone, especially those who prefer to remain anonymous, thank you, thank you and thank you.

The anxieties that too often made me feel like a beggar fade away in the warmth of the friendship you have shown me. If wishes were horses, beggars would ride. Here I am, not riding, but writing. Even better!

In the five and half years since we first printed this book a lot has changed in the publishing world and we decided to publish it online. We hope that you - readers, partners and friends - approve. Your comments are welcome. We have kept the content, with minor changes and updates, and the look of the first edition which benefited from Martha Mulligan Hooper's editing, Marie Sheridan's and Martina Marek's illustrations, Fletcher Moore's typesetting and choice of Bookman Old Style typeface. Zachary Shaw prepared the registration form for online access to the book. Top-quality design and file preparation by Jana Bull for the first edition and this second edition helped make them both happen. Thanks to you all.
